On 10/3/79, [redacted] Wisconsin telephone [redacted] furnished the following information: [redacted] said that she worked for [redacted] Mrs. [redacted] said that she worked for [redacted] at both the Show Bar and the White Way Motel in Hurley, Wisconsin. [redacted] was [redacted] of the Show Bar [redacted] at the White Way Motel. [redacted] stated that [redacted] and this was the reason that she [redacted] left the Show Bar.

Mrs. [redacted] stated that [redacted] dancers at the Show Bar who were actaul "strippers" and very likely prostitutes. She could not state positively that the girls hustled at the Show Bar but their activities indicated such. They would take men upstairs or out of the bar and later would return alone. The dancers stayed at the White Way Motel and many times she would find men in their rooms and would charge the dancers for another person.

Mrs. [redacted] stated that it was no secret in Hurley athat [redacted] Alex Raineri [redacted] to Raineri [redacted] legal adviser". Mrs. [redacted] said this occurred in 1978 and 1979 after Raineri became a judge. [redacted] told her that if there were any problems and she was not around to contact Raineri. [redacted] said that Raineri was almost a daily visitor to the Show Bar before it burned and would also [redacted] at the bar. [redacted] Raineri would make trips to Milwaukee, Wisconsin and Iron River, Michigan to locate girls and bring them back to Hurley. This information wase from [redacted] according to [redacted]

Mrs. [redacted] recalls that one evening or early morning at the Motel, [redacted] Jack O Lantern Bar in Iron River, Michigan and another girl checked into the Motel saying that they had just arrived by bus. Mrs. [redacted] said she knew that they did not come by bus, because there were none running at that time. While talking to the girl the following day, the girl advised Mrs. [redacted] that [redacted] Raineri had driven them from Iron River, Michigan to Hurley, Wisconsin. The girl was a negro, female, however, Mrs. [redacted] could not recall her name. Mrs. [redacted] said that [redacted], a stripper [redacted] a bartender, had worked at the Show Bar.

Mrs. [redacted] said that in September, 1978, [redacted] Raineri to Reno, Nevada where Raineri was attending a legal conference. She also stated that [redacted] Raineri had been involved in an automobile accident in or near Ironwood, Michigan late in 1978. The accident involved a car belonging to [redacted] who lives [redacted] in Hurley. [redacted] reportedly is suing Raineri to recover damages to her car.

Mrs. [redacted] stated that [redacted], a negro female from Milwaukee who worked at the Show Bar and [redacted], a negro female were arrested in Ironwood, Michigan late in 1978, for theft from a jewelry store owned by [redacted] also owns a [redacted] in Hurley. [redacted] is rumored to have returned to Milwaukee and the outcome of the charges are unknown.

[redacted] Michigan b6 b7C

On the night of 12/8/80 —

[redacted] came into the ~~lobby~~ lobby on the first floor ~~on the bar~~ (street level) of the Park Motor Inn, Madison, Wisc. [redacted] was waiting for confirmation of room reservation & had just gotten her check for witness expenses from [redacted] (last name unknown), was sitting at the bar next to [redacted] & They talked. [redacted] were also sitting there. [redacted] heard numerous people around her talking about the Judge Alex Rainer case. [redacted] thought the were not supposed to discuss it. [redacted] were talking about case [redacted] about these people talking about the case & [redacted] "Don't worry, I'll cover your ass!" & [redacted] went to sit down. [redacted] later came up to [redacted] & said "That colored girl and [redacted] went up stairs". [redacted] came b6 b7C into the lobby at ~~about~~ this time & [redacted] said to [redacted]. She had to talk to him & told him about the girl & lawyer going up stairs. [redacted] she would get [redacted] over to confirm ~~for~~ this fact. [redacted] told [redacted] to tell [redacted] about the colored girl & lawyer going up stairs and [redacted] said to [redacted] "Am I going to get any more money?" [redacted] said b6 b7C "No." [redacted] said that [redacted] saw the attorney & colored girl going into the elevator & told [redacted] about it. [redacted] ~~left~~ [redacted] left. Then [redacted] left the ~~lobby~~ lobby. Then [redacted] went over to [redacted] who was talking with [redacted]

"I ought to slap your face. You have no right talking to him ([redacted]); [redacted] is your lawyer." [redacted] said "He's not my lawyer, he's Rainer's lawyer". [redacted] said "You're in a lot of trouble now". [redacted] frightened [redacted] said "I'll fix it". [redacted] said don't go up to the lawyer & black girls room. [redacted] said "There are b6 b7C

Hurley, Wisconsin, has the reputation and approximately 100 years of history as a town where prostitution and vice have existed relatively untouched by local officials; and certain Hurley figures reportedly have connections with Organized Crime figures in Chicago and Newport, Kentucky.

RAINERI has been the subject of an investigation by the Wisconsin Judicial Investigating Commission regarding his fitness as Judge; a portion of the following has been [redacted] b7D the remainder from local sources, etc:

RAINERI was a lifelong friend of JACK "JACKPOT" GASBARRI, now deceased, operator of local taverns noted for prostitution. His first wife, LOIS GASBARRI, had extensive record as inmate and keeper of a house of prostitution from 1943-1965. After they were divorced, JACKPOT [redacted] b6 b7C

GASBARRI operated the Show Bar, Hurley, Wisconsin, until his death in 1975, [redacted] b6 b7C GASBARRI was also a partner in the White Way Motel, located next door to the Show Bar, with RICHARD MATTRELLA, who now resides at Newport, Kentucky, and has a record of WSTA. The Show Bar is described by PAUL STURGUL, current Iron County District Attorney, as "Hurley's last cathouse," though he states that he has never had a complaint and there have been no prostitution arrests there since he took office in 1978. STURGUL describes [redacted] relationship since JACKPOT's death as "RAINERI's [redacted]

RAINERI has been identified as being regularly present at the Show Bar [redacted] Dancers there have claimed that [redacted] a portion of their prostitution take and has commented that [redacted] would take care of things if there was ever any trouble. [redacted] RAINERI allegedly made several trips to Iron River, Michigan, and Milwaukee, Wisconsin, in 1978 "to get girls for the bar." b6 b7C

During the summer of 1978, RAINERI reportedly attempted to hire a female bartender to manage the Show Bar. When she declined because of prostitution, he reportedly stated "No one could do anything to her." Later, when this bartender was fired, she was referred to RAINERI for an explanation. RAINERI reportedly handled all the legal paperwork [redacted] the Show Bar until it burned on April 20, 1979. b6 b7C

[redacted] RAINERI, including to the Judicial College at Reno, Nevada. In 1978 and 1979, the former bookkeeper for the Show Bar telephonically talked to RAINERI, who stated that he (RAINERI) was doing the daily business records of the Show Bar. After the fire, RAINERI told the bookkeeper he would dissolve the corporation. b6 b7C

During the summer of 1978, RAINERI was reportedly present directing a meeting of the stockholders of the White Way Motel [redacted] The purpose of the meeting was to approve the sale of the motel if a buyer could be found. RAINERI's secretary and court reporter allegedly prepared the minutes of the meeting, omitting RAINERI's participation from the written record. b6 b7C

The motel was sold in 1979, which apparently caused a great deal of ill feelings [redacted] RAINERI. She has left Hurley, reportedly because RAINERI [redacted] in the Los Angeles area. b6 b7C

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

Date of transcription 12/11/79

ALEX J. RAINERI, 502 - 6th Avenue, Hurley, Wisconsin (home telephone 561-3873), Circuit Judge, Iron County, Wisconsin, was contacted at his office at the Iron County Courthouse, Hurley, Wisconsin (telephone 561-3434). RAINERI was readvised of the identity of the interviewing agent, with whom he was previously familiar, and was advised that an investigation was being conducted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation relating to allegations of Federal Public Corruption violations on his part in connection with his activities relating to the Show Bar, former Hurley, Wisconsin, establishment. RAINERI furnished the following information:

He has been Circuit Judge of Iron County at Hurley, Wisconsin, since January 1, 1978. Prior to that he was District Attorney of Iron County for 16-18 years, which was a part time position, allowing him to practice law on the side at the same time. As such he did civil work in Iron County, and was permitted to do defense work in other counties nearby, Ashland County being one in particular that he did a good deal of defense law practice. RAINERI advised that he was born on September 17, 1918, at Hurley, Wisconsin, and has his law degree from DePaul University, Chicago, Illinois.

RAINERI advised that the Show Bar, corporate name Ritz Bar, Inc., was owned by JACK GASBARRI, with whom he, RAINERI, grew up, and was a very good friend, and RICHARD MATTRELLA, with whom RAINERI attended high school. The corporate name, Ritz Bar, Inc., was the name of a bar which RAINERI incorporated in the 1950's [redacted] in Hurley. GASBARRI and MATTRELLA ran the Carnival, their principal place of business in Hurley. They purchased the corporate name of [redacted] in the early 1960's. Show Bar and the Carnival until the Carnival burned in 1962. They then moved into the Show Bar with their entire operation. GASBARRI and MATTRELLA were the sole stockholders of the Show Bar (Ritz Bar, Inc.). The Carnival had been a restaurant, bar, and featured strip shows, and was located in a single story building. The Show Bar was located in the old Francis Hotel, becoming a bar on the first floor, and renting out rooms above the bar to entertainers from the bar. JACK GASBARRI managed the Show Bar until he died in about November, 1975. After his death, [redacted] of the Show Bar. b6 b7C

RAINERI did some legal work for the corporation, though it also had other lawyers. He recalled that the Show Bar had trouble with music royalty administrators, insurance claims, bills, and other civil matters, which he handled for them. They also took some other civil work to CHARLIE SANTINI, an Ironwood, Michigan, attorney, who is now deceased. The income tax of the Show Bar was handled by [redacted] of Merrill, Wisconsin. They also used some lawyers in Kentucky, where they had other interests, to handle some of their legal matters, particularly criminal work. They were also represented in a criminal anti-racketeering matter by [redacted] of Milwaukee. b6 b7C

During the last years that JACK GASBARRI operated the Show Bar [redacted] skilled white entertainers became more high priced and as it was cheaper to hire black entertainers, this was commonly done. A number of these entertainers were basically prostitutes in addition to being dancers. He stated that this was not anything that the house got involved in or permitted to occur, to his knowledge, and [redacted] was always afraid of a prostitution arrest. She was constantly fighting with her employees, having trouble with their tendencies toward prostitution, and they threatened her with harm. b6 b7C

At the time RAINERI assumed the bench, he had no legal work going for the Show Bar, and there was no legal work turned over to any other attorney for that establishment. He has done no legal work for them since becoming judge.

On the day that JACK GASBARRI died, after a years terminal illness, RAINERI took him to the hospital. There JACK GASBARRI asked RAINERI if he would see that [redacted] This request was made because [redacted] was of [redacted] and he was worried she might have problems as a business woman. Since JACK's death, RAINERI has [redacted] both personally and when she would call him and ask for it. There was no fee involved. After he became judge he never went to the Show Bar, purposely staying away because of appearances. Though everyone assumes there [redacted] himself. [redacted] was living, RAINERI and his wife and [redacted] JACK often went on trips together. Since JACK's death RAINERI and his wife have taken [redacted] out to eat in the Hurley area a lot of times. RAINERI stated that he has traveled around town [redacted] and has often been seen in an automobile with her in Hurley. Because of this people around town have speculated that [redacted] has traveled to Duluth, Minnesota, with RAINERI and his wife, and before JACK's death they went out together every weekend for dinner. Since JACK's death, they have never traveled together outside of Hurley and he has not traveled [redacted] on business, either her business or his business. He has no interest in her business, and has never received a dime in payment from her.

For about a year after JACK GASBARRI died, RAINERI and his wife went to the Show Bar regularly on Saturday nights to visit [redacted] Once he was elected judge, he stayed away from the Show Bar, breaking off this Saturday night ritual.

RAINERI stated there is no truth to the allegation that he ever traveled [redacted] to any location to pick up dancers [redacted] establishment. He stated that [redacted] and he [redacted] so that [redacted] This was done before he became judge, and [redacted]

RAINERI stated that [redacted] booked entertainers out of Madison, Wisconsin, and Oshkosh, Wisconsin, using booking agencies until they became prohibitively expensive about 1-1½ years ago. The names of these agencies were unknown to him. Her later method of recruiting entertainers was unknown to RAINERI. b6 b7C

RAINERI never kept any records or books for [redacted] She had a bookkeeper named [redacted] and then another whose name he could not recall in Ironwood, Michigan. They did her income tax records and other bookkeeping. She always did her banking business at the First National Bank of Ironwood, Michigan, located just across the state line from Hurley, Wisconsin. b6 b7C

Since he has become judge, he has had no prostitution cases before him. As District Attorney he had a number of prostitution cases presented to him, including some from the Show Bar, which was the last place of entertainment in Hurley. There were more problems, however, with B-girl complaints, which often occurred. When this happened he would notify the State Alcoholic Beverage Tax Division. He had nothing to do with any of the employees at the Show Bar, including soliciting persons for employment or hiring or firing.

The White Way Motel, located next-door to the Show Bar, was also owned by RICHARD MATTRELLA and JACK GASBARRI in the corporate name White Way Motel Corporation. This was incorporated when built in the late 1950's or early 1960's. RAINERI did no legal work on that. The motel was recently sold. RAINERI had no disagreement with [redacted] over that. b6 b7C

In connection with the sale of the Show Bar, RAINERI was going to loan money to the people who ultimately purchased it, for them to buy it. RAINERI stated that he would not loan the money unless [redacted] MATTRELLA would sign a quick claim deed and a deed from the corporation. He stated he wanted to know who were the true owners before he would invest money in this enterprise. He also wanted to know who were the dummy shareholders plus he wanted the entire situation cleared up prior to his investment. b6 b7C

A meeting of the shareholders of the White Way Motel Corporation was held in about 1978. Among those present were MATTRELLA, [redacted] the corporate bookkeeper, and a court reporter whom they had prepare the minutes of the meeting. RAINERI told them he wanted to see a true revelation of the stockholders and minutes of the meeting showing this. In the end [redacted] refused to sign a quick claim deed, and "the deal flopped." The present owners who purchased it borrowed money from the bank for the purchase and RAINERI loaned no money for its purchase, feeling "the deal was not kosher." He stated he anticipated future law suits in connection with the purchase. The new owners, in the business name, Interstate Projects Corporation, [redacted] both of Hurley, Wisconsin. RAINERI did attend this meeting to learn the result of his above request to clear up the situation, though he did not participate in the meeting, and told those present he could not because he could not practice law.

RAINERI currently has no contact with [redacted] she having left Hurley, Wisconsin. He has not heard from her since June or July, 1979, and her current whereabouts are unknown.

The Show Bar burned in about June or July, 1979, exact date unrecalled, and he does not know whether or not [redacted] has filed or received an insurance claim. He knows the building was insured through a state insurance pool, established to insure tavern buildings and other high risk buildings which are otherwise uninsurable. He has no knowledge of the cause of the fire, though he is aware that the fire marshal has investigated. He has heard rumors that MATTRELLA burned the building, and that [redacted]

[redacted] as [redacted] in the motel, the Show Bar, [redacted] the Show Bar and she told RAINERI that she was breaking even. He recalled that the Show Bar was closed for three weeks before it burned, though the reason for its being closed for this period was unknown. [redacted] house is located on [redacted] Hurley, Wisconsin.

[redacted] b6 b7C

RAINERI stated that the Show Bar was a good business if it were run right, but because of [redacted] had business difficulties. [redacted] having just been [redacted] business. [redacted] did not have business skills. [redacted] JACK GASBARRI, [redacted] Carnival. JACK [redacted] in the 1960's after which [redacted] took no interest in the business. RAINERI noted that JACK GASBARRI died of cancer of the jaw after a lingering illness. He stated that [redacted] and had a hard time understanding [redacted] though [redacted] did pretty well in spite of [redacted] b6 b7C

RAINERI stated that he was aware that three of the girls dancing at the Show Bar were picked up in a jewelry store theft in Ironwood, Michigan. [redacted] told him that these three negro females went to the diamond shop and walked out with some rings. They were arrested by the Ironwood Police Department and jailed in the county jail in Bessemer, Michigan. One of the girls called [redacted] and told her that she wanted bail. [redacted] was not in agreement or supportive of them. These girls then said that if she did not make their bail they would "squawk" [redacted] say that [redacted] house of prostitution at the Show Bar and telling them that prostitution there was permissable. The police told the three girls that they should go to the District Attorney with their complaint and nothing ever came of this. [redacted] told him that the FBI had questioned her about this and about the fire. She said she has statements that the girls exonerated her. b6 b7C

RAINERI stated that a complaint could be made against him based upon appearances of wrongdoing by former Judge FRANK FASSINO. FASSINO filed 22 separate grievances against RAINERI with the State Bar Association, which culminated with RAINERI being reprimanded for three cases. One of these was a criminal case involving a procedural error, in which FASSINO alleged that RAINERI had signed a blank complaint. RAINERI stated that he did not sign a blank complaint in that matter. The second case involving a deputy sheriff named [redacted] involved [redacted] Deputy [redacted] became involved in a [redacted] on the [redacted] by Mrs. [redacted] Mrs. [redacted] was RAINERI's client on [redacted] wanted criminal complaints against Mrs. [redacted] or favorable divorce settlement. RAINERI declined to issue criminal complaints. He sent [redacted] to the judge, then FASSINO, and no warrant was ever issued. They ultimately [redacted] RAINERI noted that his reprimand was a private one, not issued in public.

He also noted that complaints could occur from the buyers or sellers in the White Way Motel situation, because RAINERI backed out of loaning the money for its purchase. RAINERI was aware that MATTRELLA [redacted] were the owners. One [redacted] a dummy shareholder, made the statement that JACK owed him money. Shareholders at the meeting felt that ALEX RAINERI was trying to give [redacted] favors at that meeting because [redacted] When JACK died there was no will and there were no children, and everything was left [redacted] JACK had an ex-wife and some [redacted] with whom he had no legal connection. DICKIE MATTRELLA knew who the true owners were and who the dummy owners were. DICK and JACK always said that they were the only true owners of the motel. They used the motel for loan guarantees on the Show Bar and other operations.

Originally, when the motel was to be sold, the original asking price was $90,000. The buyers thought they could purchase the motel at $60,000, and told RAINERI they would give him an attractive interest rate if he could raise the money to finance it. They offered $60,000 for its purchase and RAINERI was to loan them the $60,000. RAINERI wanted a clean deal in the purchase and when he did not get it he backed out. He understands that the motel sale went through without the signature or participation of [redacted].

RAINERI stated that he is not now an officer in any corporation nor was he ever an officer of any corporation when he was District Attorney. He has never been registered agent for any corporation, though he did do legal work to incorporate certain corporations.

RAINERI stated that he had no knowledge if the Show Bar had any connections with a place in Iron River, Michigan, though he knows that the dancers were on a circuit in the northern Wisconsin, northern Michigan, and Minnesota vicinity, including Duluth.

RAINERI stated that the shareholders of the White Way Motel Corporation did not know that RAINERI was a prospective buyer in the motel's sale. The only ones who know this are the buyers, [redacted] b6 b7C RAINERI's interest in purchasing the motel was originally stated by RAINERI to [redacted] At the motel sale meeting shareholders arguments resulted in a split [redacted] DICKIE MATTRELLA.

RAINERI acknowledged that [redacted] b6 b7C is agent on the liquor license at the Holiday Inn, Hurley, Wisconsin. He stated that when the Holiday Inn was built the builders were looking for a resident agent, though she takes no active part in affairs at the motel, she is paid for the use of her name as agent. RAINERI stated that he takes no active part in the motel's operation or affairs and has no financial interest in it. He stated that the motel is owned by Brooke Inns, an Illinois corporation, and Mrs. [redacted] was arranged by one of RAINERI's lawyer friends, who called him up and arranged for [redacted] to be agent. For this she gets $300 per year.

RAINERI stated that circuit judges are required to file financial statements, which are public documents, with the State of Wisconsin Supreme Court. He stated that he is currently under investigation by the State Judicial Commission, following a written complaint being made that he has been practicing law while being a judge.

He was [redacted] He had [redacted] prior to that. He believes that ALEX RAINERI, since having become judge, has continued to practice law on the side, particularly in connection with the Show Bar, operated by RAINERI's [redacted] He has submitted several complaints to the State of Wisconsin, Board of Attorney's Professional Responsibility and to the Wisconsin State Supreme Court regarding what he believes to be unethical conduct on the part of ALEX J. RAINERI, both while District Attorney and after becoming County Judge. He advised that on November 30, 1979, the Supreme Court of Wisconsin, Board of Attorney's Professional Responsibility, [redacted] wrote a letter to him relating to these complaints, stating that ALEX RAINERI had received a private written reprimand for unprofessional conduct in connection with FASSINO's complaints. This concluded that organization's investigation. [redacted] complaints were (1), RAINERI when District Attorney signed a blank complaint form in a case of the State of Wisconsin versus [redacted] (2) improper conduct by RAINERI in connection with the affairs of the [redacted] (3), improper conduct in connection with a [redacted] one of whom was a deputy on the Iron County Sheriff's Department. b6 b7C

[redacted] advised that ALEX RAINERI's older brother, JOE RAINERI, was the District Attorney in Iron County when prostitution and vice operations operated wide open in Hurley, Wisconsin. JOE left the area in the late 1940's, after which ALEX RAINERI came in as District Attorney. RAINERI's father ran a bar in the first block of Silver Street in Hurley, his name still appearing on the building in which that bar was housed.

JACK GASBARRI formerly operated the Show Bar, Hurley, Wisconsin, along with RICHARD MATTRELLA, now of Covington, Kentucky, until JACK's death several years ago. After that his widow, [redacted] the Show Bar until it burned in early 1979. General Adjustment Bureau (GAB), Ironwood, Michigan, is handling the insurance adjustment relating to this fire. b6 b7C

[redacted] stated that during [redacted] he could not recall any prostitution arrests [redacted] in Iron County Court. He stated that during this time ALEX RAINERI was District Attorney. He noted that this was a part time position, to which he strongly objected. He stated that this causes too much potential for conflict of interest on the part of the District Attorney, who often has to exercise a great deal of prosecutorial discretion. Among the items of improper conduct that he believed RAINERI guilty of was the fact that RAINERI, when part time District Attorney, submitted the total bills for his telephone, both public and private business, to Iron County [redacted] these bills being paid by the County. A number of former and current law enforcement officers in the Iron County vicinity believe that RAINERI and Chief Deputy Sheriff [redacted] have a close association, and are not to be trusted. [redacted] suggested that [redacted] of the Wisconsin State Patrol, now in the [redacted] and [redacted] Wisconsin, are among these individuals. b6 b7C

[redacted] stated that ALEX RAINERI was an officer of the corporation of the Gentile Beer Distributor in Hurley and may still be an officer of that corporation. b6 b7C

A complaint was made to the Bar Association Grievance Committee by a [redacted] relating to this incident. [redacted] believed that RAINERI had a conflict of interest in this situation. b6 b7C

[redacted] Wisconsin Division of Consumer Complaints Relating to the Real Estate Board, telephone [redacted] handled a complaint of La Blonde Realty Company, Hurley, Wisconsin, relating to sale by ALEX RAINERI of land belonging to the Northern Chief's Iron Company of Wausau, Wisconsin. [redacted] asked for a criminal complaint from former Marathon County District Attorney DANIEL LA ROCQUE against Northern Chief's. This case was dropped when LA ROCQUE became judge. At the time RAINERI sold the land for Northern Chief's he was also Iron County District Attorney, preparing all of the deeds on the property without a real estate license, which [redacted] felt was a conflict of interest. b6 b7C

[redacted] noted that there are other incidents involving members of the Iron County Sheriff's Department and the current Iron County District Attorney PAUL STURGUL, of which he is critical. He stated, however, that these incidents do not involve ALEX J. RAINERI. He stated that when RAINERI became Judge, he turned over all of his legal work to [redacted] of Ozaukee County, Wisconsin. b6 b7C

[redacted] stated that during the summer of 1979, ALEX RAINERI and [redacted] had a falling out, at which time [redacted] attempted to come to FASSINO for assistance. [redacted] however, feared that he was being "set up" by RAINERI and declined to assist Mrs. [redacted] with RAINERI. TED ERSPAMER, Chief of Police, Hurley, Wisconsin, advised as follows:

Current Iron County Circuit Judge ALEX RAINERI was a very good friend of JACK "JACKPOT" GASBARRI, who has been deceased approximately two years. GASBARRI operated the Show Bar on Silver Street in downtown Hurley, Wisconsin, until his death, after which [redacted] ALEX RAINERI, who was then District Attorney of Iron County, a part time position, was at the Show Bar quite a bit in the evenings, according to ERSPAMER's officers. ERSPAMER believed that this was before RAINERI became judge, and he stated that he was unaware of the frequency of RAINERI's presence at the Show Bar after he became judge. b6 b7C

ERSPAMER stated that he does not really know RAINERI's [redacted] "JACKPOT" GASBARRI's [redacted] though there has been a lot of small town talk suggesting RAINERI [redacted] ERSPAMER does not know RAINERI to be a regular visitor at [redacted] Before RAINERI became judge and when he was the District Attorney, he probably was [redacted] that RAINERI had handled. ERSPAMER stated that this was toward the end [redacted] Hurley, Wisconsin, during which time [redacted] that he did not put much stock in. [redacted] in Hurley, Wisconsin. b6 b7C

ERSPAMER stated that the Show Bar was a strip joint, the strippers "hustling for drinks" and formerly having been in trouble as "B-girls". In the past he had received some complaints that the girls from the Show Bar would take male customers to Ironwood, Michigan, after hours for the purposes of prostitution. On one occasion he talked to [redacted] about this, and she stated that no prostitution was going on [redacted] and what the dancers did after hours was their own business. The only arrest involving employees or occupants of the Show Bar that ERSPAMER is aware of was an arrest in Ironwood, Michigan, of several girls who were staying upstairs above the Show Bar, these girls being arrested for a jewelry theft. Actually, ERSPAMER had arrested these woman for the Ironwood Police Department at the premises of the Show Bar, asking them to voluntarily go to Ironwood which they did. There have been no recent prostitution arrests in Hurley, Wisconsin. b6 b7C

ERSPAMER stated that [redacted] the Show Bar, which was open intermittently over the last few years until it burned down in early 1979. There were [redacted] he recalled was a man named [redacted] of Ironwood, Michigan, [redacted] ERSPAMER stated that the city of Hurley licenses bartenders, but does not license dancers. Most employees that ERSPAMER could remember at the Show Bar [redacted] three black female dancers, employed at the same time. ERSPAMER believed that the girls working in the bar came from Milwaukee, learning this in connection with the [redacted], the records of which are being maintained by the District Attorney as his [redacted] had just started business at [redacted] shortly before he [redacted] b6 b7C

ERSPAMER opined that the Show Bar did not have much business in recent years, being outdated and directed to the older hunters and businessmen rather than the newer ski crowds which have been taking over Hurley. Individuals from these crowds are not interested in nude dancing such as was featured at the Show Bar. ERSPAMER checked and determined that the Show Bar burned on April 20, 1979. This fire has been investigated by [redacted] for the State of Wisconsin. On b6 b7C the next day, immediately after the fire, the walls of the establishment were pushed in upon the order of the mayor of the city of Hurley, which was handled by the city crew. As a result of the fire, all of the building collapsed into the basement except the walls, which were pushed in on top of the building's remains.

On one occasion in the summer of 1979 when [redacted] ALEX RAINERI [redacted] had wanted to talk to RAINERI and [redacted] RAINERI's [redacted] RAINERI's car was slightly damaged, but he made no damage claim. ERSPAMER personally handled the accident, and stated that he could not find any report having been prepared of the incident. b6 b7C

ERSPAMER obtained city records relating to bartenders at the Show Bar for the year 1978, which reflected the following to have been bartenders:

[redacted] age [redacted] b6
Hurley, Wisconsin [redacted] b7C

[redacted], age [redacted]

[redacted] age [redacted]

ERSPAMER further advised that to run a bar the bar needs a city liquor license, in addition to the license that each bartender is required to have. Both such licenses are passed upon by the City Council.

ERSPAMER stated that [redacted] is believed now to be [redacted] BURT STELLA, former Hurley Chief of Police, recently came in and picked up some things to [redacted] Before [redacted] with a [redacted] who is now staying in Ironwood, Michigan, and [redacted] and ERSPAMER believes that [redacted] wrote things on [redacted] after she left. About three or four times before the fire that ultimately destroyed the Show Bar, [redacted] the Police Department with [redacted] The last such report was one day prior to the terminal fire. b6 b7C

ERSPAMER is familiar with RICHARD MATTRELLA, also known as, DICKIE, who was arrested by the FBI in the 1950's, and who now resides in Kentucky. He believed MATTRELLA operates a place in Ashland, Kentucky. MATTRELLA and JACK GASBARRI were partners in business in Hurley, Wisconsin, after which MATTRELLA went to Kentucky and they also owned a place in partnership. Later "JACKPOT" GASBARRI stayed in Hurley, and MATTRELLA took care of the Kentucky place, living there. It was not known to ERSPAMER if MATTRELLA and GASBARRI actually split their assets at that time or if GASBARRI maintained an interest in the Kentucky properties.

ERSPAMER advised that an [redacted] is unknown to him. He stated that [redacted], who now lives in Ironwood, Michigan, is a drunk who hung around all of the joints in Hurley, but he never knew her to work at the Show Bar. b6 b7C

He is familiar with the fact that Mrs. [redacted] [redacted] ALEX RAINERI, [redacted] the Holiday b6 b7C

ERSPAMER stated that [redacted] WHITNEY OSBOURNE, 14 Silver Street, are unknown to him. b6 b7C

ERSPAMER made available records of Alcohol Beverage License applications for Ritz Bar, Inc., or the premises of the Show Bar, 28 Silver Street, Hurley, Wisconsin, the most recent applications being for the period July 1, 1978, - June 30, 1978. These applications listed corporate president to be [redacted], Hurley, Wisconsin, [redacted] Michigan; vice president WHITNEY JACK OSBOURNE, 14 Silver Street, Hurley, Wisconsin, born July 5, 1916, at Minocqua, Wisconsin; secretary and agent ALBERT STELLA, 9th Street, Hurley, Wisconsin, born July 7, 1907, at Ironwood, Michigan, directors to be the above three individuals. b6 b7C

The 1976 application reflected a corporate officer to be ANTON DI GIORGIO, Route 1, Hurley, Wisconsin, date of birth June 25, 1913, (vice president). The 1975 application reflected vice president, secretary, treasurer and agent, to be [redacted] Hurley, Wisconsin. ERSPAMER advised that [redacted] LOUIE GASBARRI, brother of "JACKPOT". LOUIE managed the White Way Motel, located next-door to the Show Bar on Silver Street in Hurley, Wisconsin, until it was recently sold. "JACKPOT" GASBARRI was among the owners of the White Way Motel. b6 b7C

A further review of Alcohol Beverage License applications required going back to 1965 to find the name JACK GASBARRI, 182 - 1st Avenue South, Hurley, Wisconsin, as being among the officers of the Ritz Bar, Inc. Recent applications were notarized on May 16, 1978, and again on May 24, 1978, by ALEX RAINERI.

ERSPAMER also made available application for liquor license for the period July 1, 1979 - June, 30, 1980, for the Holiday Inn, under the corporate name Brooke Beverages, Inc., P. O. Box 546, Janesville, Wisconsin. Corporate officers were indicated to be:

I, [redacted], hereby make the following free and voluntary statement to Special Agent (SA) [redacted] and SA [redacted] who have identified themselves as Special Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI). I have been advised by SA [redacted] that I am being interviewed in connection with allegations of wrongdoings by Alex J. Rainieri, Circuit Judge, Hurley, Wisconsin. I presently reside at [redacted] and was born on [redacted] and I can read and write English.

Sometime during the early to mid 1970's I learned from [redacted] CG, Jack Gasparri and Richard MaHaella that Richard MaHaella had recently purchased approximately 40 stolen color General Electric Television (TV) sets from a person (name unknown) in Kentucky. MaHaella therefore stored the TV sets at [redacted] which was located next to [redacted] located at [redacted]

Shortly thereafter, [redacted], who resides at [redacted], Hurley, Wisconsin, rented a U-Haul trailer and transported the stolen TVs from Kentucky to Hurley, Wisconsin. In return, [redacted] received one of the stolen TVs from Mattiella. The stolen TV sets were then stored at the White Wing Motel in Hurley, Wisconsin. I am of the belief that Mattiella was selling the stolen TVs from the White Wing Motel due to the TV sets slow disappearance. Also Alex Rainieri and Richard Mattiella personally advised me that they were selling the stolen TV sets out of the White Wing Motel.

I currently have two small G.E. Colos TV sets which are located in the guest bedroom of my home located at: [redacted]. I received one set from Mattiella knowing that the TV set was stolen property and that the serial number had been removed by Louie Gasbarri. I am aware of this because Mathrella personally told me that sets were stolen and should be kept hidden.

Alex Rainer advised me that he received 3 of the stolen TV sets from Mathrella in the early part of the 1970's and that he did not have to pay money for them. Rainer gave me one of the TVs which is currently located in the same room of my house with the set I received from Mathrella. Rainer placed the other two TV sets in his home located at 502 Sixth Ave. Hurley, Wisconsin. One set, a large color GE [redacted] and the other small color GE TV was placed into his basement [redacted] Rainer's home as one would enter the hallway. The TV set in his basement is identical to the 2 sets located in my bedroom. I am aware that Rainer received the TV sets and placed them in his home because I observed them in the above mentioned locations in the early 1970's and in the fall of 1978.

Rainer's home is a one story house of wood structure, white in color with a 2 car

On January 15, 1980, RICHARD MATTRELLA advised Special Agent [redacted] as follows: b6 b7C

In early 1973, an FBI search warrant was served on RICHARD MATTRELLA at Newport, Kentucky. At about that time, MATTRELLA purchased fifteen - nineteen used colored television sets which he said he knew were stolen when purchased. He stated intent for them to be used in the White Way Motel, Hurley, Wisconsin, in which he was a partner with JACK "JACKPOT" GASBARRI. GASBARRI, accompanied by [redacted] [redacted], brought the stolen television sets to Hurley, Wisconsin, in his station wagon. As there were more than would fit in the station wagon, they were accompanied by an individual from Kentucky, driving a U-Haul truck carrying the remainder. Shortly after arrival in Hurley, JACKPOT heard about some "heat" regarding the television sets and disposed of them, never using them in the motel. GASBARRI told this individual that he had given two of these stolen television sets to ALEX RAINERI, then District Attorney of Iron County, Wisconsin. b6 b7C

SUCCINCT SUMMARY OF FACTS AND STATUS OF INVESTIGATION

Circuit Judge Raineri's [redacted] Jack "Jackpot" Gasbarri from Hurley's infamous era of gambling and prostitution. b6 b7C

During the time that Raineri has served as part-time District Attorney for 18 years, and as Circuit Judge for the past 2 years, he has also been the behind-the-scenes operator of the "Show Bar," corporately known as the "Ritz Bar, Inc., a nude dancing establishment in which the dancers were also prostitutes,

[redacted] The Show Bar was destroyed under suspicious circumstances in April, 1979; however, no insurance claim has ever been filed. b6 b7C

Raineri has allegedly been involved in operating decisions of the business. [redacted] furnished the following information: b6 b7C

As a realtor, he listed for sale the property consisting of the White Way Motel located at 100 Silver Street, Hurley, initially listing this property for sale for $90,000. At the request of White Motel Corporation President RICHARD MATTRELLA, in 1978 [redacted] did an appraisal of the White Way Motel and assisted shareholders of the corporation at arriving at this sales figure. The White Way Motel was ultimately sold for $66,500 to Interstate Projects Corporation, a Wisconsin corporation locally represented by [redacted] [redacted]. The sale contract was dated March 28, 1979, which was the date of their offer to purchase at this amount, and the sale was closed on June 21, 1979, all dealings being concluded on July 25, 1979. There was no indication of financing in the offer to purchase. After all of the corporate bills were paid, the corporation received $29,577.14 which was forwarded to [redacted], Ironwood, Michigan, [redacted] Though the sale was discussed with several other potential buyers, some of whom examined the motel, [redacted] was not aware of any other actual offers to purchase. On the sale [redacted] earned a commission, having listed the property exclusively in the Hurley area, though another broker in Milwaukee also had listed it at the same price. The asking price was never lowered, a lower offer to purchase was simply accepted. [redacted] attended two meetings of the shareholders of the White Way Motel Corporation, one to approve the sale and another annual meeting. He was present at their meeting on April 23, 1979, when the offer to purchase was accepted by the corporate shareholders. He has a copy of minutes of this meeting approving the sale. At [redacted] insistence an attorney was present at the meeting, whom they had retained to represent them in the sale.

Relating to the $29,577.14 disbursed, [redacted] was present at another meeting but did not participate following a fire that consumed the Show Bar located next door to the White Way Motel. At that meeting RICHARD MATTRELLA claimed that the White Way Motel had experienced smoke damage from the fire, and he had turned in a claim to the insurance company in the amount of $3,800 for these damages. MATTRELLA hoped to collect this claim either personally or by the stockholders of the White Way Motel Corporation. This was after the acceptance of the offer to purchase, and [redacted] advised MATTRELLA that the purchaser had the right to claim any damages collected rather than MATTRELLA or the original corporation. [redacted] asked for a letter from MATTRELLA which MATTRELLA signed signing over the rights to collect any damages to the purchaser. No damages were ever collected, and it was not really a legitimate claim. [redacted] stated he was not present when the disbursements of the $29,577.14 were made. He stated that he does not have the minutes book of the meetings of the White Way Motel Corporation and had no idea who might have such a book. The attorney for the motel corporation was [redacted] of Ironwood, Michigan.

This motion was passed unanimously by those present or by proxy on roll call by the Acting Chairman. b6 b7C

It was further moved by Lois Gasbarri and seconded by [redacted] that the reading of the minutes of the last annual meeting on June 27, 1978 be waived, and further that notice of this meeting by placed on file together with any proxy statements for those not present. Motion unanimously passed. b6 b7C

There was a discussion about electing new Directors and Officers for the ensuing year. By unanimous vote, the following persons were elected Directors, to hold office until the next annual meeting of Shareholders, or until the election and qualifications of their successors: Richard Mattrella, [redacted] and Lois Gasbarri. b6 b7C

Mr. [redacted] gave a report concerning tentative sale of the real and personal property of the corporation to Interstates Projects Corporation, Inc., of Hurley, Wisconsin. The total sales price, subject to approval of the Shareholders was $66,500.00 subject to closing costs and expenses as shown on the closing statement leaving a balance due the corporation of $60,627.00. There were certain outstanding current obligations to creditors estimated to April 30, 1979 in the total sum of $7,126.81 which would be paid from the proceeds of sale. In addition, the Chicago Title Insurance Company will issue title insurance in the amount of $65,000.00 for a premium of $356.75. A proposed resolution to sell the motel property was read to the Stockholders, and a copy of said resolution is attached and made a part of these minutes. b6 b7C

A motion was made by Lois Gasbarri and seconded [redacted] that the sale of the corporate motel property be consummated as outlined by [redacted] A roll call vote was taken and the results as follows: [redacted] voted yes (50 votes); Richard Mattrella by proxy voted yes (62 votes); [redacted] by proxy voted yes (50 votes); [redacted] by proxy voted yes (40 votes); [redacted] by his Attorney in Fact voted yes (15 votes). Those not present and not voting were as follows: [redacted] and James Gasbarri, deceased, (50 votes). Results: Yes-217, Not voting-118. There being more than two-thirds majority of the Stockholders present, the motion to sell the corporate property was approved. The appropriate officers, namely the vice-president and secretary were authorized to sign a Deed and Bill of Sale to consummate the transaction. b6 b7C

A brief discussion followed concerning the payment of any other outstanding expenses of the business prior to transfer to the new owners. A motion by Lois Gasbarri seconded [redacted] that Mr. [redacted] be authorized to deduct and pay all necessary outstanding expenses of said business up to the date of closing, and that the balance be paid to the corporation to be deposited in escrow at the First National Bank of Ironwood, Michigan in an interest bearing account. The said funds remaining on hand over and above that needed to defray necessary expenses shall be held in said account until further meeting or action by the Directors. b6 b7C

has heard that RAINERI has [redacted] to Milwaukee in order to pick up girls for the Show Bar. This may be known to [redacted], JACKPOT's [redacted] an employee of the Show Bar for many years. All of these individuals may be reluctant to furnish this information, but it is general knowledge in the community. b6 b7C

[redacted] for the White Way Motel Corporation until it was sold in the summer of 1979. This was after the demise of the Show Bar in a fire about May or June, 1979. In about June, 1978, or slightly before, the decision was made to sell the White Way Motel. This was made at a shareholders meeting at the White Way Motel in which ALEX RAINERI was in attendance and had a court reporter come to the motel to take minutes of the meeting. [redacted] was not in attendance at this meeting but has since attended a couple of stockholders meetings where this was mentioned. RAINERI was present at 1979 meetings to [redacted] and was an active participant in such meetings. He is aware that RAINERI's participation in the White Way Motel Corporation meetings is not found on the minutes as recorded by the court reporter, though RAINERI is once referred to in these minutes. LOUIE GASBARRI or RICHARD MATTRELLA may have the minute book for the White Way Motel Corporation; the June, 1978, meeting minutes are recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds at the courthouse in Hurley. These were filed there by [redacted]. At these meetings ALEX RAINERI was in favor of the sale of the motel and was advising [redacted] to go along with it. [redacted] To the best of [redacted] knowledge, RAINERI was not a stockholder. Those stockholders, all of whom should appear in the minute book, were [redacted]; DICK MATTRELLA, who resides in Kentucky and was boss; LOUIE GASBARRI; JACKPOT; JACKPOT's deceased father; LOIS GASBARRI [redacted] b6 b7C b6 b7C b6 b7C

During the early period they were talking about the sale, there were no prospective buyers, though later [redacted] obtained such buyers, and Attorney [redacted] of Ironwood represented the White Way Motel. [redacted] has heard that the buyers started to negotiate with ALEX RAINERI regarding the purchase of the White Way Motel, as RAINERI was reportedly going to finance their purchase. These buyers have a lot of other businesses, though not a lot of capital. The sale was going along well, and these people were not negotiating with a bank, so apparently their financing was assured. There was then a delay because they had to negotiate with a bank for financing, and [redacted] heard that ALEX RAINERI had backed out of financing their project. [redacted] has heard, though he cannot prove, that RAINERI called these buyers to let them know that the motel was for sale for around $65,000. The starting price for the sale had been over $100,000, and on the real estate market it started at around $90,000. The sale was ultimately dropped to around $65,000, which was a good deal for a 20 unit motel, though it needed work. [redacted] has heard that RAINERI called [redacted] the ultimate buyer to tell him when it reached $65,000. At the meetings of the White Way Motel Corporation, RAINERI said that they should sell because the place was not making a profit and needed renovations to make money. Because of this, they might as well sell it rather than embark on these renovations. He favored a sale if a buyer could be found. RAINERI was not supposed to be practicing law, but he has always been [redacted] while JACKPOT had been alive. [redacted] did not think that RAINERI had used his position as judge to influence the sale of the motel to the new buyers. There was some haggling at the stockholders meetings over who were true stockholders. JACK's first wife, LOIS GASBARRI, was there as a proxy [redacted]

For tax purposes they were self-employed, and they were supposed to pay their own taxes as none were withheld. On a number of these occasions he saw ALEX RAINERI at the Show Bar, though he was unsure if this was after RAINERI became judge or beforehand, when RAINERI was a practicing attorney and part-time District Attorney of Iron County, Wisconsin. [redacted] also had to go to [redacted] on [redacted] though he could not recall ever having seen ALEX RAINERI there. He never had a stockholder list for Ritz Bars, Inc., though he knows DICK MATTRELLA to be a stockholder. He had no knowledge of whether or not ALEX RAINERI was a stockholder. The corporate agent, ALBERT STELLA, was listed in order to obtain a liquor license under Wisconsin law, the agent being required to be a resident of the state and county in which the license is held. It was [redacted] opinion that this agent should also be a shareholder.

About one month before the fire which destroyed the Show Bar, RAINERI contacted [redacted] asking about [redacted] by Wisconsin authorities. RAINERI asked [redacted] at the time if he was still doing the books for the Show Bar. Since the fire RAINERI has called [redacted] on one occasion, at which time [redacted] asked him about dissolving the corporation, which RAINERI said he would take care of. To the best of [redacted] knowledge, the corporation still exists. He felt that the articles of incorporation, including a list of officers and shareholders, should be registered in the county courthouse at Hurley. [redacted] stated that he had no knowledge of whether or not any insurance claim has been made on the fire which destroyed the Show Bar.

should not be reported for tax purposes and the corporation dissolved. He asked RAINERI if something should be done and if [redacted] should be the one to do it. RAINERI said no, he would take care of it. [redacted] is unaware of the disposition the Show Bar had with the Wisconsin Department of Revenue regarding sales taxes. b6 b7C

During the winter of 1976, when RAINERI was District Attorney of Iron County, he accompanied [redacted] office and retained [redacted] the Show Bar. The books had previously been done by another accountant who had moved from town. RAINERI had apparently kept the books for awhile as [redacted] that ALEX did something in a certain way [redacted] to ask ALEX about a certain way of doing things. He had apparently done the daily books, payment of bills and all necessary business. On a number of occasions when there were problems, [redacted] would go to see ALEX about them. This occurred very frequently, sometimes as often as three or four times per week. This also included legal problems of the business such as the problems with taxes or the Wisconsin alcohol agents. [redacted] RAINERI [redacted] One day [redacted] received a call from [redacted] stating that State of Wisconsin alcohol tax agents were on the premises. [redacted] noted that he has occasionally caught [redacted] in a few lies similar to the one described above which she told to the state alcohol tax agents. b6 b7C b6 b7C

During the three or four years that [redacted] b6 b7C

This included books, daily sales sheets, etc. On a number of occasions when [redacted] the Show Bar transacting business with [redacted] would be talking with ALEX RAINERI on the telephone. [redacted] often talked to RAINERI on the telephone from [redacted] office at the Show Bar. b6 b7C

Regarding the 1978 tax return for the Show Bar, [redacted] this corporation return at the end of 1978 or early in 1979. When examining it [redacted] that ALEX said there were more things that could be deducted. [redacted] ALEX do the return over, so [redacted] the original and kept [redacted] He also gave [redacted] for the return. [redacted] continues to maintain in his possession tax returns, payrolls, bank statements, cancelled checks, check stubs, income and sales tax records, etc. for Ritz Bar, Inc., doing business as the Show Bar, for the years from 1977 back to about 1973. He also has [redacted] personal income tax records for approximately that period of time. He would happy to produce these pursuant to a subpoena. b6 b7C

[redacted] stated that he had no knowledge of ALEX RAINERI [redacted] to procure entertainers for the Show Bar. He knew that [redacted] had entertainers with her. He believed one particular source of entertainers for the Show Bar was Minneapolis, Minnesota, as she booked some entertainers through a Minneapolis agency with the name Sauna in it. (By U. S. Mail received at the Wausau Office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) on December 21, 1979, [redacted] a copy of Ritz Bar, Inc. check number 920 on account number 16-427-8 of the First National Bank of Ironwood, Michigan, payable to b6 b7C

In early 1979, the Show Bar, JACK's business [redacted] burned to the ground. She has heard that [redacted] a claim regarding the building. She stated that she never could understand why JACK had [redacted] JACK. JACK ultimately died after a long bout with cancer. During the last years on orders from DICK MATTRELLA, the motel would not rent rooms to the girls from the Show Bar, and employees at the motel were directed to watch the dancers' rooms to be sure they were alone in their rooms if the dancers were staying there. She noted that she had worked as a night clerk at the White Way Motel until about four years ago, at which time she was succeeded [redacted] b6 b7C

She is well familiar with BERT STELLA, who was Chief of Police in Hurley for many years and "did not bother anybody". Prior to him JACK FALL had been Chief of Police for many years with the same attitude. She has no knowledge of current Chief of Police TED ERSPAMER.

Mrs. GASBARRI advised that she was born September 5, 1913, at Mc Kenzie County, North Dakota. She has served several stretches in jail, both in Federal custody and at Taycheedah in Wisconsin, and has numerous arrests, all for "running a whorehouse". Her most recent arrest and charge was in about 1973 when she received 30 days incarceration and two years probation from Federal District Judge JAMES DOYLE for her part in operation of Club 13, a house of prostitution.

She advised that [redacted] Her former brother-in-law, LOUIS GASBARRI, JACK's brother, currently resides at 410 Poplar, Hurley. b6 b7C

Mrs. GASBARRI advised that the last meeting of the White Way Motel Corporation occurred in 1979 at [redacted] in Hurley, when the proceeds of the sale of the White Way Motel were divided up. The approximate final payments made were: RICHARD MATTRELLA - $8,000; [redacted] (payment for supplies); [redacted] LOUIS GASBARRI - $9,000 - back pay; LOIS GASBARRI - $1,336 - back pay. Also deducted from the proceeds were taxes and bills, and there is some money still in the bank at the First National Bank, Ironwood, Michigan.

She was not aware of the involvement of RAINERI in the operation of the Show Bar, though she had heard from [redacted] on occasion that [redacted] RAINERI had traveled to Michigan to obtain and return to Hurley dancers for the Show Bar. She knew a number of the girls who danced at the Show Bar, mainly by their stage names, seeing them when they were staying at the motel. There was no question in her mind from her experience that these girls were also working as prostitutes at the same time they were dancing at the Show Bar. She noted that on one occasion [redacted] had mentioned to her of an automobile accident in which [redacted] RAINERI had been involved somewhere in Michigan. She stated that RAINERI had the charges dismissed regarding that accident.

On one occasion [redacted] told RAINERI about the girls turning tricks upstairs above the Show Bar and at the White Way Motel. RAINERI's only reply was that there was nothing she, [redacted] could do to stop them, and it was [redacted] see that the girls sold drinks to the customers. [redacted] some of the dancers tending bar, though they did not have bartender's licenses. This fact was known to RAINERI, as he regularly saw them behind the bar when he stopped in. [redacted] once questioned this, and [redacted] ALEX told her that this was not against the law. It was also common knowledge that a number of the dancers were also prostitutes, but nothing was ever done about it. b6 b7C

ALEX RAINERI came to the club extremely frequently; if he did not come to the club one day, he called; [redacted] between RAINERI [redacted] He usually came at about opening time, 7:00 p. m., [redacted] RAINERI was either present or called every night through the time he was Judge of Iron County. for this reason. RAINERI said, "They can't do anything to you." [redacted] then asked her to be manager which [redacted] misunderstood. RAINERI then reiterated that [redacted] wanted [redacted] to be manager. [redacted] said she did not want to be manager because of the prostitutes, and RAINERI again said that nothing could be done to her because of this. b6 b7C

When she was not working at the Show Bar, [redacted] in Hurley. She had sometimes given the dancers and customers from the club [redacted] locations in Hurley and Ironwood, particularly after the closing of the Show Bar for the night. After she refused to manage the club, RAINERI became annoyed and told [redacted] that she could not do this or she would get herself into trouble. She told RAINERI that all she was doing was [redacted] and she had no control over what the girls did once they [redacted] a motel. RAINERI then made no further comments to her. The after-hours tricks of the prostitutes, if not occurring upstairs above the Show Bar, usually were at local motels such as the Holiday Inn or the White Way Motel, or wherever the male customers had obtained rooms. She often overheard dancers making dates for prostitution at the bar with customers. During the working hours of the club, the dancer and the customer would leave separately, meet at the side door of the club, and go upstairs for their tricks. On one occasion [redacted] complained to [redacted] ALEX about the tricking going on upstairs. This did not occur on a regular basis upstairs while [redacted] was bartender, however. b6 b7C

[redacted] said that [redacted], who had worked at the Show Bar as a dancer in 1978, had told her that [redacted] had told [redacted] she could use the upstairs of the Show Bar to turn tricks if [redacted] would give [redacted] half the money. [redacted], instead, stayed at the Holiday Inn in Hurley, where she said she could keep all of her money from tricks. She told this to [redacted] b6 b7C

During early August or September, 1978, [redacted] had called [redacted] to find out when she, [redacted], was to work at the bar. [redacted], also known as [redacted], answered the telephone and said that [redacted] and if there were any questions, she should call ALEX RAINERI. [redacted] called RAINERI at home and told him what had happened, and RAINERI said that he would get back to her. She later was in contact with RAINERI, not recalling if she had called him or he called her, and she then went back to work at the Show Bar. She finally [redacted] though [redacted] in Ashland, Wisconsin; the papers filled out by the Show Bar relating to this could not have been done [redacted] Some time in 1979, after [redacted] in connection with a prostitution situation at the French Casino in Hurley, she approached Mayor of Hurley BILL DARY. At that time she asked DARY [redacted] when the Show Bar had been allowed to go on with prostitution for its entire existence. DARY questioned this statement, stating that the city was not aware of any prostitution. She challenged DARY, reminding him that on one occasion there was a line of men waiting at the entrance to a room at the White Way Motel while a prostitute was entertaining them inside. At the time the Hurley Police Department was called, and the situation was terminated. The prostitutes involved were a couple of Negro females not known to [redacted] but known to [redacted] b6 b7C

A [redacted], who resides at [redacted], worked [redacted] at the Show Bar when JACKPOT was alive. [redacted] had stated to [redacted] that she knew about payoffs from JACKPOT to RAINERI during this period of time when RAINERI was District Attorney of Iron County. [redacted] stated she had no way of knowing whether or not RAINERI received any money from the Show Bar. After JACK's death, there was never any talk about a will, though JACK's brother, LOUIS GASBARRI, who managed the White Way Motel next door to the Show Bar, [redacted] ALEX RAINERI went out of [redacted] quite frequently. [redacted] recalled that the horse race tickets located [redacted] in Hurley, Wisconsin, was provided [redacted] Alex Raineri. Raineri had a friend, name unrecalled, who owned two horses and raced them in buggy races at the Chicago Downs Racetrack in Chicago, Illinois. The purpose of [redacted] the race tickets were to help this friend avoid potential taxes due to the fact that he earned too much money. I am of the belief that Mattrella was selling the stolen TVs from the White Way Motel due to the TV sets slow disappearance. Also Alex Raineri and Richard Mattrella personally advised me that they were selling the stolen TV sets out of the White Way Motel. b6 b7C

"I currently have two small G.E. color TV sets which are located in the guest bedroom of my home located at [redacted] Wisconsin. I received one set from Mattrella knowing that the TV set was stolen property and that the serial number had been removed by Louie Gasbarri. I am aware of this because Mattrella personally told me that sets were stolen and should be kept hidden. b6 b7C

"Alex Raineri advised me that he received 3 of the stolen TV sets from Mattrella in the early part of the 1970's and that he did not have to pay money for them. Raineri gave me one of the TVs which is currently located in the same room of my house with the set I received from Mattrella. The following investigation was conducted at Reno, Nevada, on January 16, 1980, by SA [redacted] b6 b7C

Investigation at the National Judicial College, University of Nevada - Reno, determined that Alex J. Raineri, Circuit Judge, attended that school from September 17, 1978, to October 6, 1978, for the General Jurisdiction school. Records further revealed that Raineri also attended the school from September 30, 1979, to October 5, 1979, for the purpose of taking the Civil Litigation course.

The college advised that when the judges attend the various schools they are usually housed in the College Inn, a dormitory-type building used to house University of Nevada - Reno students during the academic year. From time to time attendees will make their own arrangements for accommodations but that would not be recorded with the college.

ever they were ready. She never saw a cop in the Show Bar except during the Italian Days celebration in Hurley
when out-of-town police officers were working in town.
There was apparently no pressure from the Hurley Police Department or Iron County Sheriff's Office to enforce the law within the Show Bar.

Mr. and Mrs. [redacted] Wisconsin [redacted] furnished the following information: b6 b7C

[redacted] JOHN and LOUIS GASBARRI [redacted] JAMES GASBARRI, all of Hurley, Wisconsin. Both JAMES GASBARRI and JOHN ("JACKPOT") are now deceased. JOHN GASBARRI primarily operated taverns in Hurley, his primary places of business being the Carnival Club and later the Show Bar. b6 b7C

In around 1960, when the White Way Motel was built by JACKPOT and an associate, RICHARD MATTRELLA, stock in the White Way Motel Corporation was issued at $100 per share. The motel was actually built with JOHN GASBARRI's and DICK MATTRELLA's money, but in order to be a corporation, it required a certain number of stockholders. For this reason, [redacted] of stock being placed in [redacted] Though [redacted] had not initially placed this money into the operation, he continued to feel that [redacted] of stock represented a financial holding, similar to the 15 shares of stock JOHN GASBARRI had placed in [redacted] advised that the original allocation of shares in the White Way Motel's corporation was as follows: b6 b7C

RICHARD MATTRELLA - 62 shares; [redacted] JAMES GASBARRI - 50 shares; JOHN GASBARRI - 38 shares; [redacted] shares; [redacted] Each share was valued at $100 per share. Since that time, [redacted] had always kept out of the operation of the motel, feeling that DICK MATTRELLA and JACK GASBARRI both were "crooked". Over the years they were involved in a series of what he considered to be shady deals with the motel corporation, taking money out of the corporation improperly. At first the motel was a profitable venture, but more recently it was losing money, and the stockholders, in particular DICK MATTRELLA, decided to sell. [redacted] received b6 b7C

a notice from [redacted] a Hurley realtor, that a meeting was being called of all shareholders to discuss a potential sale of the property. [redacted] traveled to Hurley to attend the meeting, which was not held because they could not find [redacted] JOHN (JACKPOT). Some time after that [redacted] determined from [redacted] that the motel had been sold. At the time of sale there were a lot of unpaid bills and back-pay to employees owed, these having to be paid before the motel's owners realized their money. He had never been given any understanding that his shares were worthless or that DICK MATTRELLA and JACK GASBARRI were the only owners of the White Way Motel. He believed that the original documents of the motel's incorporation were burned in the fire of the Carnival Club, several years ago.

Though they were not present at the 1978 meeting of the shareholders of the White Way Motel Corporation, they have received the minutes of this meeting, though they have heard from relatives in Hurley that they do not accurately represent what happened there. They have heard that ALEX RAINERI, Circuit Judge, was in attendance at this meeting [redacted] though the extent of his participation is unknown.

Once, before this meeting, ALEX RAINERI had tried to get [redacted] to sign over his shares in the corporation [redacted] This was right after JACK had died, at which time [redacted] was still working at [redacted] RAINERI called [redacted] and said that he would like to see him in Hurley. Mr. and Mrs. [redacted] traveled to Hurley where they met in RAINERI's law office with RAINERI [redacted] At that time RAINERI tried to tell [redacted] in the White Way Motel. [redacted] stated that he [redacted] but stated that [redacted] at the original value of $100 per share. RAINERI appeared to want these shares very badly, and [redacted] assumed that he was trying to get controlling stock interests in the corporation [redacted] When [redacted] refused to sign over the shares, RAINERI then said they could take the matter to court. RAINERI continued to call [redacted] several more times, the same conversation ensuing, but [redacted] stood firm in his demand that [redacted] RAINERI continued to maintain that the courts could decide the situation. b6 b7C

JACK GASBARRI died without a will, as did his father, JAMES. As JAMES had lived with JACK shortly before his death, and JACK had taken care of his finances, none of the other members of the family ever saw any money from an estate, if, in fact, any existed. When JACK died his property consisted of his interest in the Show Bar, his interest in the White Way Motel, his father's house on 1st Avenue South in Hurley and JACK [redacted] Hurley. He did not have a lot of money. All of his property was believed to have [redacted] none being known to have [redacted] LOIS GASBARRI. b6 b7C

The [redacted] had heard that even before JACK's death, ALEX RAINERI had [redacted] JACK said very little about this, though on one occasion when he went to the Marshfield Clinic, he stopped in [redacted] with the [redacted] at which time he told them, [redacted] Just before he died JACK was very unhappy [redacted] the house belonging to JAMES GASBARRI after JACK's death. This house has since been torn down. There was no will from JACK (JOHN) GASBARRI, and to the knowledge of the [redacted] there has never been any probate proceeding. b6 b7C

When [redacted] went to Hurley for the meeting of the White Way Motel Corporation relating to the sale, there he saw RICHARD MATTRELLA, who questioned his stock ownership and stated, "What are you doing here?" b6 b7C

Since that time he [redacted] from the proceeds of the motel's sale or to fight for this, because he considered it would be costly and because he is afraid of DICK MATTRELLA, knowing MATTRELLA's reputation for having been involved in racketeering. b6 b7C

The [redacted] have never received any dividends from the stock of the White Way Motel, Inc., though they are certain that the motel earned a substantial profit during its first few years of operation. [redacted] was contacted at the White Way Motel, Hurley, Wisconsin, the corporate offices of Interstate Projects, a Wisconsin corporation (telephone 715-561-2901). He furnished the following information: b6 b7C

Interstate Projects, a Wisconsin corporation, has been incorporated since April, 1973, basically being involved in the construction and development of motels. The former White Way Motel, 100 Silver Street, Hurley, was purchased in 1979, by the corporation and is currently operating as the Interstate Budget Inn at the same address. The motel is currently listed in the names of [redacted] Corporate [redacted] is [redacted] (Hurley), Wisconsin; [redacted] Wisconsin, [redacted] The motel purchase was handled by [redacted] There are already in existence Interstate Budget Inns at Duluth, Minnesota, and Superior, Wisconsin. In 1978 and early 1979, the corporation was looking for a good buy in a motel in the Hurley, Wisconsin - Ironwood, Michigan, area. They were simultaneously trying to buy the Show Bar [redacted] wanting to work up a disco bar in downtown Hurley. [redacted] in the White Way Motel. Approximately six months before their ultimate offer to purchase, [redacted] interest in purchasing the White Way Motel and began seeking financing. During this period, [redacted] to ALEX RAINERI, Iron County Circuit Judge, who offered to finance the purchase of the motel [redacted] "if you can get it for the right price." [redacted] RAINERI he would be looking for about $60,000 worth of financing. RAINERI initially agreed to finance this amount, though in the end he backed out of the financing. RAINERI's reasons given for backing out were that there were some problems of clearing title of the White Way Motel Corporation. Regarding financing, [redacted] to RAINERI several times, and RAINERI was agreeable. The b6 b7C b6 b7C interest figure of 10% had been discussed, but no exact agreement had been reached. Approximately 10-15 year repayment period was being considered.

At the time the offer to purchase the White Way Motel was made, [redacted] idea was that ALEX RAINERI would finance the purchase. About 45-60 days prior to closing, RAINERI backed out of financing the purchase. At this time [redacted] to find financing so that they would not lose their earnest money, $6,600, which they had placed down. The total purchase price of the motel was $66,000; $60,000 for the motel plus $6,000 commission plus approximately $1,800 indebtedness on the motel televisions. The motel was purchased with everything inside accompanying it. [redacted] ultimately obtained financing for the purchase of the motel at the First National Bank of Ironwood in the [redacted] He stated that he does not know the real reason why ALEX RAINERI backed out of the financing, but feels that the problems with clearing title were not the true reason.

This was [redacted] business dealing with ALEX RAINERI. He stated that RAINERI was not the one who called to his attention that the motel was for sale and that he [redacted] were not simply nominees of RAINERI in the purchase, but this purchase was their project with RAINERI being the financier.

The original asking price of the motel was $95,000. They offered $50,000 initially simply to see how low the corporation would go. The compromise of $66,000 was reached [redacted] with DICK MATTRELLA, President of the motel's corporation. MATTRELLA had said that his listing with [redacted] local realtor, had run out. [redacted] then found out that the motel was still listed and went to [redacted] to tell him that the most they would offer was $60,000. [redacted] contacted MATTRELLA, who agreed on accepting the $60,000 if [redacted]

[redacted] had seen a copy of the minutes of the meeting of the White Way Motel Corporation in the possession of [redacted] He wanted to see these minutes to be sure that everyone in the corporation was being taken care of in the purchase, so there would be no hassles, liens, etc. in connection with the purchase. b6 b7C

In offering financing, ALEX RAINERI had always been specific that he would not finance the purchase unless everyone in the White Way Motel Corporation got their share. ALEX knew all of the other people involved, [redacted] DICKIE MATTRELLA and the other stockholders. [redacted] was not sure of the [redacted] between ALEX RAINERI [redacted] but noted that it is locally rumored that [redacted] He had heard that they [redacted] during 1979. b6 b7C

During the process of the purchase, [redacted] talked with one another and felt that they were being used by ALEX RAINERI. They felt that they had been placed in the middle between White Way Motel Corporation and RAINERI and suspected that he had the inside knowledge on what the other side was doing. They suspected that RAINERI's backing out may have been in order to cause their purchase to fall through, after which he may have been able to pick up the motel extremely cheaply. b6 b7C

Prior to making their written offer to [redacted] to purchase the motel, [redacted] had several meetings [redacted] offering to purchase the Show Bar [redacted] They initially offered her $75,000 for the Show Bar. They then offered to put this much money into the Show Bar's expansion and [redacted] When neither of these were successful, they then had a third party from Superior come to town and offer [redacted] $100,000 for the purchase of the Show Bar. [redacted] Shortly b6 b7C

after this, the Show Bar burned. [redacted] stated that the Show Bar was not a bad place, in fact, was pretty nice inside and at the time was worth the money being offered. The meetings to discuss the purchase of the Show Bar were conducted at [redacted] and included only [redacted] with their offers to purchase. [redacted] have arisen that it may have been ALEX RAINERI. b6 b7C

[redacted] reiterated that the price paid for the White Way Motel was certainly reasonable for a 20 unit motel, though he noted that it required a considerable amount of renovation. Two of the units of the White Way Motel were removed to make corporate offices for Interstate Projects. It is the intention of Interstate Projects to continue to operate the White Way Motel under the new title Interstate Budget Inn. [redacted] noted that shortly after the burning of the Show Bar, a new disco, Pogo's, opened next door to the White Way Motel on the opposite side from where the Show Bar had been. b6 b7C

Hurley, Wisconsin

Mr. Richard Mattrella, President of the corporation, called the meeting to order. He called the roll as to shareholders present and they were: Richard Mattrella, 62 shares; [redacted] b6 b7C

RICHARD MATTRELLA: Okay. This is the meeting of the shareholders of White Way Motel, Incorporated, Hurley, Wisconsin, and this meeting is called pursuant to notice to all of the shareholders. The notice contains the purpose of the meeting and that is to cancel all the shares that are held in the names of persons who have not paid any consideration for their shares. And that the persons in attendance are myself, Richard Mattrella, and I am the holder of sixty-two shares, [redacted] b6 b7C So I am representing my sixty-two [redacted] The next stockholder is--

LOIS GASBARRI: [redacted]

RICHARD MATTRELLA: -[redacted]

LOIS GASBARRI: [redacted]

RICHARD MATTRELLA: Wait a while. We've got to get your name.

LOIS GASBARRI: Lois Gasbarri.

[redacted] b6 b7C

[redacted] giving authority to permit her [redacted] at this meeting, and to [redacted] at this meeting. All right. Then the next shareholder is [redacted] How many shares do you hold?

[redacted] Oh, God. [redacted]

[redacted] I think it is. [redacted]

[redacted] All right. [redacted] b6 b7C

[redacted] is here, and [redacted] shares that he holds in his name but he's holding it as a secured stockholder because one of the members of the corporation [redacted] But he does not claim to be a shareholder for any other purpose but [redacted] and that's agreeable to the corporation. Okay. Any other stockholders appearing? Oh, yea, and then there's-- Well, you got-- All right. [redacted] b6 b7C [redacted]. She has [redacted] She's got the shares.

[redacted] The slip I got says [redacted]

RICHARD MATTRELLA: He gave [redacted]

LOIS GASBARRI: She got [redacted]

RICHARD MATTRELLA: [redacted] Now,

how many shares are outstanding? Can you total up those shares I give you? So we don't have to know any further. We just want to know who is in attendance here. So we've got a representation of a total of how many shares now? [redacted] I've got all the shares here now [redacted] How much is that? [redacted] and this-- The shareholders here are [redacted] in stocks, shares of stock, so you got holders of shares of stock [redacted] shares so that's a majority. There's [redacted] the old man, Jack--Louie's father and [redacted] which comes to [redacted] b6 b7C

RICHARD MATTRELLA: Then we got somebody else [redacted] too much.

LOUIS GASBARRI: I think [redacted] Do you want me to look in the book?

RICHARD MATTRELLA: What do you got [redacted] down for?

LOUIS GASBARRI: [redacted] I think he said. [redacted] There it is. [redacted]

RICHARD MATTRELLA: Look in the book, Louie.

LOUIS GASBARRI: She had [redacted] b6 b7C

RICHARD MATTRELLA: So you show [redacted] [redacted] So let's make a correction that [redacted] [redacted] So that takes it down to [redacted] [redacted] it is supposed to be. [redacted] No. There's [redacted] so we show a total of [redacted] shares of stock. Now, you show on the record that the purpose of the meeting is to cancel all the outstanding shares held by people who hold in trust only except for Mr. [redacted] Mr. [redacted] agrees that when [redacted] by people who are interested in the corporation, that he will vender then the shares back to the corporation to be divided equally between myself, Richard Mattrella, [redacted] b6 b7C

A VOICE: Now, wait. Do you got [redacted] too?

RICHARD MATTRELLA: No. No, she holds hers until the place is sold. She gets her representative per share payment. If you sell for X number of dollars, you divide the number of shares outstanding into that and her fifteen will go into that, and she'll get back what each one of you get per share. Unless somebody buys her ahead of time. All right. I call the meeting to order. All shareholders that are present are asked to vote, all those in favor to cancel out the shares.

[redacted] Got it. b6 b7C

LOUIS GASBARRI: [redacted]

RICHARD MATTRELLA: All right. Do I hear a motion from the floor to cancel all the shares outstanding held by the people who are not, who are holding only in trust and that would represent James Gasbarri, [redacted] b6 b7C [redacted] That's it. Is somebody going to make a motion to cancel out those shares? Does anybody want to make a motion?

[redacted] I think it better she does. She will say I so move. That's all.

[redacted] I so move. That's all.

RICHARD MATTRELLA: Have you got the motion? Okay. All right. Is there a second to the motion? Well, I am the presiding officer but I can step down and second it so I second the motion. All those in favor say aye. So I am voting [redacted] shares in favor-- I am voting [redacted] b6 b7C [redacted] in favor. I don't know what position you are going to take.

[redacted] You got me in a jackpot. I could open my mouth a hell of a lot and I don't want to.

RICHARD MATTRELLA: No, I don't want you--to put you in the position to weaken your security but it is in the minutes [redacted]

[redacted] No, I'll just withhold temporarily.

RICHARD MATTRELLA: But you are willing to vote your [redacted] shares in favor of the motion [redacted]

[redacted]

[redacted] Does that tie me up? b6 b7C

RICHARD MATTRELLA: No.

[redacted] I will vote.

RICHARD MATTRELLA: You have no objection to the-- He's voting [redacted] shares in favor of the motion. That's [redacted] [redacted] All right. So we've got [redacted] shares by myself. I have voted [redacted] of [redacted] has voted [redacted] shares of [redacted] has voted [redacted] shares [redacted] and then are you going to vote [redacted] in this favor?

LOIS GASBARRI: Yea.

RICHARD MATTRELLA: Okay. So she's voting [redacted] b6 b7C shares for [redacted] Motion is carried. All right. Do I hear a motion that the shares outstanding except for [redacted] and those shares when [redacted] and except for [redacted] will be divided equally between myself [redacted], and that the secretary be ordered to issue those shares excepting the [redacted] and excepting the [redacted] shares respectively to myself, Richard Mattrella, [redacted] one half each? Are you going to make that motion?

[redacted] I so move.

RICHARD MATTRELLA: I second. All right. You vote in favor? You cast your vote?

[redacted] Yes. b6 b7C

LOIS GASBARRI: Yes.

RICHARD MATTRELLA: Do you have any objection, [redacted] You cast the-- Mr. [redacted] is voting in favor only [redacted] and they can be divided between myself [redacted] All right. You show all those shares present cast a vote in favor of that second motion. Motion is carried. All right. Is there any other business that ought to be transacted? How about putting the building up for sale? Is that agreed upon by everyone?

[redacted] Sure. b6 b7C

RICHARD MATTRELLA: Do you so move to place the motel up for sale and authorize, ah, to accept the highest bid for it, assuming everybody agrees?

[redacted] I so move.

RICHARD MATTRELLA: We can get the-- [redacted] is out of town. Louie called and tried to get him for the meeting. Nobody is forced to sell. In other words, if you don't like the price, you don't have to sell. It will be agreed upon, something everybody agrees on. So it will be put up for sale by the two principal shareholders, [redacted]

LOUIS GASBARRI, date of birth August 6, 1918, 410 Poplar Street, Hurley, Wisconsin, telephone number 715-561-4590, advised that he is the son of JAMES GASBARRI, who has been dead approximately 10 years, and is the brother of JOHN GASBARRI, also known as Jack, Jackpot, who died in about 1975. In addition to himself and JACK, JAMES had [redacted] Wisconsin, [redacted] telephone number [redacted] b6 b7C

In around 1960, the White Way Motel was established at Hurley, Wisconsin, by RICHARD MATTRELLA, [redacted] JAMES GASBARRI, [redacted] JACK GASBARRI, [redacted] These were the original stockholders having the following approximate shares: b6 b7C

RICHARD MATTRELLA - over 30 shares, exact number unknown.

[redacted] b6 b7C

JAMES GASBARRI - 50 shares.

JACK GASBARRI - 32 shares.

When JAMES GASBARRI and JACK GASBARRI died, their stockholdings were never settled and until the recent sale of the White Way Motel, they have been on the books as stockholders of the above number of shares. Neither JAMES nor JACK left a will when they died, although neither one's estates went through probate court. JAMES did not leave much, as he was sick during the last years of his life and his bills were mainly taken care of by JACK. It was LOUIS GASBARRI's feeling, however, that upon his father's death, his father's 50 shares of White Way Motel stock should rightfully have been equally divided among the [redacted] When JACK died, there was again no probate proceeding, all of his belongings [redacted] b6 b7C

During the summer of 1978, there was a meeting of White Way Motel, Inc. at the motel. Present at the meeting were RICHARD MATTRELLA; [redacted] LOIS GASBARRI [redacted] b6 b7C by ALEX RAINERI, Circuit Judge of Iron County; and himself, LOUIS GASBARRI. The main topic of the meeting was to approve the sale of the motel, which was done. RAINERI called his court reporter, who came to the meeting and recorded the minutes, for which she was paid by the corporation. LOUIS GASBARRI has seen these minutes and stated that what is recorded is correct but the minutes are incomplete and do not present a true picture of the participation of ALEX RAINERI in the meeting. RAINERI, during the course of the meeting, made a few comments and assisted RICHARD MATTRELLA in the meeting's organization. RAINERI acted more in an [redacted] b6 b7C Everyone present questioned why RAINERI was attending this meeting. The question of stock ownership came up and LOUIS pointed out that his father still owned 50 shares. DICK MATTRELLA claimed that JAMES GASBARRI's shares represented his (MATTRELLA's) money and they were in Mr. GASBARRI's name only. LOUIS recalled that on the day his father died, his brother, JACK GASBARRI, told him that JAMES still had 50 shares of White Way Motel stock valued at $5,000 ($100 per share). At the meeting, ALEX RAINERI said that if JAMES had any shares, they should have been paid off by JACK GASBARRI for $5,000 when the family cottage called the Island, near Marenisco, Michigan, was sold about 15 years ago. The family cottage had been in LOUIS GASBARRI's name. RAINERI maintained that JAMES GASBARRI had no money in the corporation and that the only investors were JACK GASBARRI and DICK MATTRELLA. In so claiming, ALEX was [redacted] JACK's shares. ALEX said to LOIS GASBARRI, JACK's first wife, who [redacted] that [redacted] b6 b7C was the only survivor of JACK. [redacted] LOUIS GASBARRI had been arguing for years with DICK MATTRELLA about his father's shares of stock. When ALEX RAINERI backed DICK MATTRELLA's position, there was not much that LOUIS could do to contest this. Since he was not out any money of his own, having invested nothing in the shares, he decided to drop the issue. LOUIS further noted that [redacted] Wisconsin, also had shares in the corporation and as far as he knows, [redacted] has never been compensated for his shares. He noted that both the shares of [redacted] were paid off by the corporation, and the shares of [redacted] were turned over to [redacted] RICHARD MATTRELLA.

LOUIS noted that he had been called to this meeting because he had managed the White Way Motel from its opening in November, 1960, until May 27, 1979, when the motel closed just before its sale. [redacted] and LOIS GASBARRI [redacted] had [redacted] at the motel. Just before the sale, the State of Wisconsin was after the motel corporation to pay these employees minimum wage, which the corporation was not doing as it was not making any money. The original asking price for the motel was $90,000. This was decided upon by DICK MATTRELLA [redacted] LOUIS did not recall any statements or input from ALEX RAINERI regarding the selling price or later lowering of this price. At one meeting of the motel corporation, Realtor [redacted] was present and it was [redacted] who listed and ultimately sold the business. [redacted] received an offer to purchase the motel for $65,000 and a meeting of the shareholders was called to determine whether or not this offer would be accepted. This meeting was held in February or March, 1979, and present at the meeting were [redacted]; an attorney named [redacted] from Ironwood, Michigan; LOIS GASBARRI; [redacted] of Ironwood, Michigan, [redacted] RICHARD MATTRELLA; and RICHARD's [redacted] did not show up for the meeting. This meeting was held two days after its originally scheduled date, when it was postponed because [redacted] On the date of the original meeting, [redacted] had come to Hurley from Merrill to attend this meeting. At the later meeting, HOWARD HARDY acted as a proxy for [redacted] Nobody acted [redacted] The offer to purchase came from [redacted] and an associate and their financing was not known. [redacted] had stopped the sale once by placing a lien on the property to hold it up. They then had to get her to release her lien, which held up the sale several months. The original offer to purchase had been in effect until April 30, 1979, but the purchasers agreed to lengthen their offer while the problems [redacted] were being ironed out. LOUIS has heard that ALEX RAINERI put [redacted] up to making the offer of $60,000 plus commission for the motel, then later backed out of financing its purchase. b6 b7C

After the sale of the motel, there were all kinds of unpaid bills, including back wages to employees. These were taken care of until all creditors were satisfied, and what was left should have been divided up among the stockholders. [redacted] for his stock. LOUIS was not sure whether or not all of the proceeds of the sale had been divided up as there was about $7,000 left in the bank at the First National Bank of Ironwood. DICK MATTRELLA was in town around November, 1979, and may have drawn it out at this time. b6 b7C

LOUIS advised that his brother, JACK GASBARRI, had operated the Showbar in Hurley, Wisconsin, although the building in which the Showbar operated was listed in the name of LOUIS [redacted] JACK had told LOUIS to sell the building, keeping 25% for himself [redacted] After JACK's death, [redacted] was after LOUIS to give her some sort of a paper reflecting [redacted] of the Showbar building. ALEX RAINERI, who was Iron County District Attorney at the time, prepared and signed such a paper. A couple of months later, LOUIS GASBARRI learned that a quitclaim deed had been filed at the courthouse, showing that [redacted] the property and LOUIS owned 25%. Neither he [redacted] recalled ever signing any such deed, although when they examined the deed at the courthouse it appeared to bear their signatures. This deed was also prepared by ALEX RAINERI and LOUIS felt that he must have signed it inadvertently among the papers presented to him b6 b7C by RAINERI. On one occasion, he has questioned RAINERI about this deed and its signing and RAINERI just smiled slyly and did not answer his questions. After the Showbar burned in April of 1979, the insurance man said that the insurance for the building was [redacted] He has shown these described papers to Attorney [redacted] and has been told by the Fire Marshal and the insurance adjuster that he has a right to 25% of any insurance settlement. The building was insured for about $55,000 [redacted] never made a claim on this insurance. Until JACK died, LOUIS' [redacted] of the Ritz Bar Inc., corporate name of the Showbar, for the company's liquor license. This was done because his brother, JACK, had a criminal record and could not obtain the license in his name. After JACK's death, [redacted] At that point, BERT STELLA, retired Chief of Police from Hurley, who was the cleanup man at the Showbar, was made registered agent.

LOUIS noted that his father, JAMES GASBARRI, had an old house located on mining company property when he died. LOUIS has received tax notices for this house for the years 1975 and 1976 reflecting the house to be listed under JAMES GASBARRI Estate. After JACK GASBARRI's death, [redacted] ALEX RAINERI [redacted] getting the proceeds which amounted only to about $500. JAMES had originally been a mine worker, later selling vegetables he raised in his garden, and in his later years JACK got him into a bar as a day bartender at the Flame Bar, 15 Silver Street in Hurley. JAMES had held a liquor license for JACK in that business.

LOUIS GASBARRI advised that all records of the White Way Motel were left in the basement of the motel when it was sold in the summer of 1979 [redacted] He stated that he does not know where [redacted] resides and does not know his telephone number. He stated that his [redacted] has never formally complained about not receiving any money for his shares in the White Way Motel, although he has occasionally said he was going to make a formal complaint.

From his association with both the White Way Motel and the Showbar, he is aware that some of the dancers from the Showbar stayed at the motel. In addition to their dancing, some of these girls were occasionally involved in prostitution. The motel ultimately had to prohibit or limit the staying of the dancers at the motel because they were entertaining too much company at night. One night, there was a big argument between one of the dancers [redacted] at the motel. He learned from [redacted] that on another occasion, there were two girls in one unit and a large amount of commotion of people going in and out of their room. On this occasion, DICK MATTRELLA, who was present, had this commotion pointed out to him. MATTRELLA then called LOUIS GASBARRI and told him that no "funny business" was to be allowed in the motel. LOUIS noted that a number of the Negro female dancers who worked at the Showbar often lied to him when staying at the motel. b6 b7C

He stated that these dancers from the Showbar should be aware of the [redacted] ALEX RAINERI. He has observed ALEX RAINERI going into the side door of the Showbar quite a number of times, although the exact times or dates are unknown. He stated that he observed this on occasion when he was at the motel, although he was not always in a position to observe the Showbar. He noted that local rumor has it that ALEX RAINERI [redacted] b6 b7C

GASBARRI advised that when Bookkeeper [redacted] closed up the books of the White Way Motel Corporation after its sale, he brought these books to LOUIS GASBARRI to be ultimately furnished to DICK MATTRELLA. MATTRELLA has never come for these books and GASBARRI had them present at his residence at this time. He noted that the minutes book of the corporation was not among these records, these only being the business records. He suggested that as [redacted] had these books at the time of sale, [redacted] may still possess the minutes book. b6 b7C

LOUIS stated that he knew that ALEX RAINERI had represented his brother, JACK GASBARRI, before JACK's death, and after this time furnished legal representation to [redacted] In his opinion, he felt that RAINERI had b6 b7C

continued to [redacted] even after RAINERI became Iron County Circuit Judge. It was common knowledge in Hurley that RAINERI [redacted] b6 b7C

GASBARRI made available for review the general ledger and miscellaneous account ledger regarding the White Way Motel and an envelope containing White Way Motel records. He also furnished copies of an agreement between [redacted] LOUIS [redacted], dated December 31, 1975, relating to the building known as the Showbar; a copy of quitclaim deed, document 74784, between LOUIS GASBARRI [redacted]; and a copy of letter of [redacted] dated April 8, 1977, to LOUIS GASBARRI, Manager of the White Way Motel. b6 b7C

White Way Motel Inc.

Mr. Louis Gasbarri, Mgr.

I have your letter of April 6, with regard to the request of Mr. Mattrella.

I regret to inform you that while the Showbar has been operating since my last payment, it has barely made the overhead expenses. In fact it was behind at times. That is the reason I am behind with payments.

While I am writing you about the Motel, I would like you to have Mr. Mattrella send me the current true statement of assets and liabilities for the motel. Also, the results and changes of its operations for the latest fiscal year. I request a statement of surplus on hand and if changes occurred, the reasons for the change. This information should be all in reasonable detail. As soon as I have examined these records I shall require all of the records in detail for the same information of the past 10 years.

Wisconsin and Federal laws require a corporation to furnish this information to a shareholder upon request. I hope to have this information in 10 days.

I have already written Mr. Mattrella about other matters concerning the motel and you can have him furnish that information also.

Sincerely yours,

When the Holiday Inn opened a manager was brought in from Minnesota, and, as state law required the corporate agent to have been a resident of Wisconsin for at least one year, this manager could not be listed as agent on the Holiday Inn's liquor license. At that time ALEX RAINERI was District Attorney of Iron County, and somehow, in a manner unknown to [redacted] RAINERI's [redacted] ended up on the liquor license as corporate agent. There never has been a liquor problem or arrest in connection with the Holiday Inn property.

The Holiday Inn has experienced some problems with dancers from the Show Bar, Hurley, Wisconsin, who were staying at the Holiday Inn and also being involved in prostitution. She personally called the Show Bar and stated that she wanted this girl out of the Holiday Inn. [redacted] Chief Deputy Sheriff, later arrived and took this girl to the airport. Show Bar dancers often stayed at the Holiday Inn, and one of the biggest problems the Holiday Inn experienced was in getting their correct names. [redacted] advised that lists of the Holiday Inn's registrants were kept on a month by month basis for seven years, so almost all registration records since the Inn opened would be available if one knew the month to check. b6 b7C

RICHARD MATTRELLA, 32 Bordeaux Drive, Highland Heights, Kentucky (606-441-0001), was contacted at the residence of [redacted] Hurley, Wisconsin [redacted] where he furnished the following information: b6 b7C

He was originally a partner in the White Way Motel Corporation, Hurley, Wisconsin, with JACK "JACKPOT" GASBARRI. While "JACKPOT" was still alive, the Internal Revenue Service placed a lien against GASBARRI and MATTRELLA for $31,000 in back taxes. When "JACKPOT" died, MATTRELLA, as "JACKPOT's" partner, became liable for his taxes, and entered into an agreement to pay the Internal Revenue Service $57,800, consisting of taxes of roughly $31,000 and interest of roughly $26,000. When the White Way Motel was sold in 1979 for $60,000, the first requirement was that back payments to employees be made, and from this LOUIE GASBARRI received $9,000, [redacted] and FRENCHIE (LOIS) GASBARRI received $1,100. MATTRELLA, who has 62 shares of White Way Motel stock, [redacted] taking this along with the money [redacted] had owed him and applying it to the lien of [redacted] After everything was divided up there was still about $7,000 in the bank, and on December 31, 1979, MATTRELLA closed the White Way Motel bank account by taking a check for $6,900 from the bank and making it payable to [redacted] On January 9, 1980, MATTRELLA made a payment of $27,000 to [redacted] representing taxes going all the way back to 1953 for the Club Carnival. This was for cabaret tax, entertainers taxes, etc., and involved a 1958 settlement for approximately $70,000. MATTRELLA stated that JACK GASBARRI had been paying over $900 per month on this settlement, which was half paid for when the Club Carnival burned in the early 1970's. MATTRELLA stated that he did not realize even a dime from the sale of the White Way Motel. b6 b7C

In 1952 MATTRELLA, who had been born and raised in Hurley, Wisconsin, went to Kentucky to go into business.

In 1953 he and JACK GASBARRI built the Club Carnival in Hurley, Wisconsin, which they owned and operated until it burned in 1971. Later they purchased the Show Bar under land contract [redacted] and JACK made the payments on the building until it was paid off. JACK could not put the Show Bar into his name because he owed the government taxes and they would take it, so it was placed in the name of his brother, LOUIS GASBARRI. MATTRELLA stated that he had always been under the impression that he owned part of the Show Bar, but LOUIE said that JACK told him before he died that LOUIE was to get one-fourth and [redacted] LOUIE told MATTRELLA that [redacted] ALEX RAINERI got him (LOUIE) to sign some papers, and without LOUIE's knowledge he ended up having signed a quick claim deed [redacted]

In April, 1979, the Show Bar burned, [redacted] On January 2, 1980, MATTRELLA went to see the insurance adjuster, who said that the insurance company wants to [redacted] before paying off on the insurance, and [redacted] so they will not release payment until they are satisfied.

In the early 1960's the White Way Motel Corporation borrowed $50,000 from a bank in Duluth to purchase the motel at auction, have it moved, and then build on an addition at its current location. The corporation consisted of RICHARD MATTRELLA, secretary; "JACKPOT" GASBARRI, president; his father, JAMES GASBARRI; [redacted] "JACKPOT'S" [redacted] "JACKPOT's" [redacted] who was then "JACKPOT's" [redacted] RICHARD's [redacted] MATTRELLA stated that he did not know the reason this was made into a corporation, as he and "JACKPOT" were the only investors. The corporate stockholders remained the same until the motel was sold in 1979, except that when "JACKPOT" [redacted] "JACKPOT" paid her off for her stock. At the time of sale [redacted] claimed that [redacted] and had cashed them in for his investment, thus [redacted] was paid off at the time of sale.

From 1962 until the present, MATTRELLA has been in Kentucky, and not in direct touch with what has been going on in the White Way Motel. His only contact with the motel was that he stayed there when he came to visit relatives in Hurley. The bank in Duluth was paid off, but there never seemed to be any profit in the motel, and money was disappearing, ostensibly on linen costs, but apparently into someone's pocket.

In the summer of 1978 MATTRELLA was at a White Way Motel Corporation meeting at which ALEX RAINERI was present [redacted] b6 RAINERI talked and took an active part in the meeting, b7C at which it was decided to sell the motel. [redacted] to sell the motel, and ALEX had recommended it be sold because MATTRELLA [redacted] When they finally had a sale for the motel, [redacted] MATTRELLA was all ALEX RAINERI's doing. MATTRELLA stated that he has his own ideas that ALEX RAINERI wanted to buy the motel, but he has never heard that RAINERI actually was involved in its purchase.

MATTRELLA stated that he really had no hand in the operation of the Show Bar, which was operated completely by "JACKPOT" [redacted] He did not b6 think that "JACKPOT" had a will when he died, though JACK b7C and ALEX RAINERI were very close and JACK put a lot of trust into ALEX.

MATTRELLA stated that ALEX [redacted] b6 "JACKPOT" was still b7C alive, and often [redacted] MATTRELLA stated that he suspected ALEX RAINERI has been profitting from the Show Bar for years, and also from other bars in Hurley, Wisconsin, though he declined to say which ones. Though he and ALEX attended high school together, they are not the best of friends and ALEX has "done everything in his power to screw MATTRELLA out of the motel and everything else." MATTRELLA noted that when he was convicted of racketeering in 1974 and was about to be sentenced, he was requested to give testimony against "JACKPOT"

GASBARRI and ALEX RAINERI, whom the government wanted to prosecute. He stated at that time he did not know information which would incriminate these individuals.

MATTRELLA advised that he has recently talked to [redacted] who has said that ALEX [redacted] stated [redacted] "really bury ALEX" and [redacted] that ALEX got prostitutes from Iron River, Michigan, and brought them to Hurley. MATTRELLA stated that [redacted] has also told him this. b6 b7C

MATTRELLA advised that he has never paid anything to ALEX RAINERI, though "JACKPOT" paid quite a lot of money to ALEX, including paying his expenses to Las Vegas and making collections from four or five places in downtown Hurley which he then gave to ALEX. MATTRELLA described "JACKPOT" as being ALEX's "bag man" and the places in downtown Hurley that were involved as being other bars involved in prostitution.

ALEX RAINERI has been District Attorney of Iron County since his brother quit in about 1960, until he became Judge at the beginning of 1978. To the best of MATTRELLA's knowledge, there have never been any local arrests for prostitution and there has never been any pressure from the local police to enforce prostitution laws or closing hours laws. He noted that all of the bars in Hurley turned out their lights at closing time but kept on going inside with business as usual. He noted that the prosecutor of Iron County is in a strong position and "JACKPOT" GASBARRI was well liked and "made himself liked by the law", financially.

MATTRELLA stated he did not know "JACKPOT" to be giving cash Christmas presents to law enforcement officers in Iron County, Wisconsin, but stated that he knows "JACKPOT" gave out a case or so of whiskey for Christmas on occasion.

MATTRELLA stated that he would never have thought of selling the White Way Motel, a 20 unit motel, for $60,000, as the original asking price was $90,000. [redacted] told him that [redacted] was interested in the motel at $60,000, and MATTRELLA went to see [redacted] at which time this was offered and MATTRELLA laughed. [redacted] then said it was [redacted] to sell the motel for $60,000, but MATTRELLA has later heard that ALEX RAINERI [redacted] to making that offer.

STELLA acknowledged that he was the registered agent and president of the corporation holding the liquor license for the Show Bar, the corporation being called Ritz Bar, Inc. When "JACKPOT" was living he had asked STELLA to be the agent on the liquor license because "JACKPOT" had a criminal record. "JACKPOT" presented STELLA with an original paper to sign which made him president of the corporation and agent, though "JACKPOT" stated, "this did not mean anything." STELLA stated he did not get paid anything for having these positions, and during the time he has been listed as president of the corporation he has never attended a corporate meeting. Every year he was presented with a similar paper to be signed for renewal of the liquor license, either by "JACKPOT" or after "JACKPOT's" death, [redacted] ALEX RAINERI may have been the lawyer for the Show Bar when "JACKPOT" was living, but there was never anyone present to notarize STELLA's signature when he signed it on these forms, including ALEX. STELLA reiterated that his signature was never notarized by anyone in his presence on the liquor license renewal forms. He stated that he has never had any telephone conversations regarding the Show Bar with ALEX RAINERI. b6 b7C

STELLA advised that he did not mix with the owners or management of the Show Bar, but just did his work, which consisted of mopping, sweeping, cleaning up, and bringing beer supplies up from the basement and putting them in the cooler. Most of the time the Show Bar did a good business, though toward the end it was not so profitable. He currently has two checks [redacted] that have bounced, and he is waiting [redacted] b6 b7C

For the information of all receiving offices, captioned investigation relates to alleged participation in behind-the-scenes operation of the Show Bar, Hurley, Wisconsin, described by current District Attorney as "Hurley's last cathouse." Hurley has a colorful history of vice and prostitution operating wide open without restraint by local law enforcement. The Show Bar was owned and operated by JACK "JACKPOT" GASBARRI until his death in late 1975, after which [redacted] RAINERI, who was District Attorney from 1960 to 1978 when he became Judge, was an inseparable personal friend of JACKPOT and it has now been established that as District Attorney, RAINERI was being paid off by bars featuring prostitution, with JACKPOT making monthly collections. After JACKPOT's death, [redacted] b6 b7C was definite that [redacted] had not been transported there by ALEX RAINERI. She advised that [redacted] (last name unknown), worked in Hurley but not in Iron River and was never transported there, to her knowledge, by ALEX RAINERI [redacted] b6 b7C

To her knowledge, ALEX RAINERI has never been in the Show Bar once it opened, and she has never seen him [redacted] One afternoon he came into the bar for a couple of minutes while [redacted] was there. She stated that nobody really ran the Show Bar, girls just danced more or less on their own. She never saw anyone go upstairs and she had no knowledge of prostitution at the Show Bar. Neither [redacted] ALEX RAINERI talked about prostitution. She recalled that on one occasion a dancer from the Show Bar [redacted] came to Iron River one deer season with some hunters, but she did not dance at the Jack-O-Lantern but was just visiting. b6 b7C

On another occasion, [redacted] who [redacted] to Hurley one night to look for [redacted] in order to socialize with them. When the Show Bar burned, she called [redacted] needed anything, but was unsuccessful in getting ahold of her. b6 b7C

[redacted] advised that [redacted] is unknown to her, though she has [redacted] the White Way Motel, and has heard of him. She has heard that [redacted] of the Show Bar for one or two weeks, then [redacted] She has heard this from salesmen servicing both Iron River and Hurley. b6 b7C

During her dinners with ALEX RAINERI and [redacted] RAINERI [redacted], and there has been no business conversation. She knows that RAINERI is an attorney and is a judge, and she b6 b7C has never heard them talking about prostitution. She reiterated that she has ridden to Hurley with ALEX [redacted] on only one occasion. She stated that she does not take the bus to Hurley and has never done so and has never claimed to have done so. She has stayed at the White Way Motel on only one occasion. b6 b7C
